

Easily register Ricoh multi-factor printers for Universal Print integration

Cut costs and give IT more time by virtually eliminating the servers associated with print and fax infrastructure

Ricoh's smart operation panel multi-function printers offer integration with Universal Print by Microsoft so customers can easily register printers in Azure Active Directory for Universal Print. Ricoh connects technology, processes, and people so companies can focus on moving forward.

Leveraging Print Platform Cloud Service gives IT staff more time to focus on business challenges and drive business value for the organization. Ricoh's offering can also reduce costs associated with infrastructure, support, administration and management by virtually eliminating the servers associated with print and fax infrastructure.

From the cloud, Print Platform Cloud Service lets companies take a proactive approach to their always-on goals by staying on top of the most advanced software solutions and security protocols with automatic updates.

Benefits that add up

Centralized management for IT admins

IT admins can distribute printers to Azure AD-joined Windows devices. Centralized print reporting lets IT admins view print job history and usage reports.

Support for mixed device environments

Ricoh printers with native support of Universal Print don't require an on-premises print server or printer device installation while printers without native support can gain these benefits with the Universal Print connector.

Security for your devices and documents

Set user privileges so users can print to only select printers. Data is encrypted during transfer over the network and when stored in non-volatile storage.

About Universal Print by Microsoft

Universal Print is a modern print solution that organizations can use to manage their print infrastructure through cloud services from Microsoft. Universal Print runs entirely on Microsoft Azure. When it's deployed with Universal Print-compatible printers, it doesn't require any on-premises infrastructure. Universal Print is a Microsoft 365 subscription-based service that organizations use to centralize print management through the Universal Print portal.
