Discover a new level of project ownership and business intelligence from your Relativity environment

Legal teams are feeling more pressure than ever to keep costs reasonable and proportionate to their case. This can be accomplished by increasing the efficiency and productivity of internal resources, while capitalizing on technology spend.

Make smart decisions about your review process

RICOH Acumen provides valuable business intelligence and insight into your Relativity environment. Designated users will be armed with snapshot and trend reports, along with workspace metrics and statistics, and real-time review performance tracking.

Using the global view, users can report on all of their Relativity projects and project history, or drill down to single or selected cases — all with interactive, downloadable graphs, and an executive summary of all cases.

Take ownership over your Relativity environment

Authorized users will gain access to Relativity administration features such as setting up workspaces and users, and applying permissions. They’ll also be able to upload and process data directly into Relativity. This empowers your team to take more ownership over your Relativity environment and streamline your workflows, resulting in fewer interruptions and less demand on Project Management to handle administrative tasks.

Why RICOH Acumen for your Relativity environment?

- Business intelligence and insight to discover project trends
- Real-time review performance tracking
- Access to Relativity admin features
